What's involved in making a website?

The first step is to clarify your goals.

- 👉 Do you want to use your website to create credibility?
- 👉 To answer questions about your services or products?
- 👉 To sell a product directly?
- 👉 To collect donations?
- 👉 To provide access, like a portfolio or sample songs, to those who might be considering your services?
- 👉 To encourage users to email you, or to collect information from them?
- 👉 What do you want the look of the website to communicate to users? What is the essence of the art, service, or enterprise you want to portray?

You can provide these answers, or we can work them out together.

A first, consultation meeting is free!

Sites start at $500: we'll provide a total estimate based on scope.

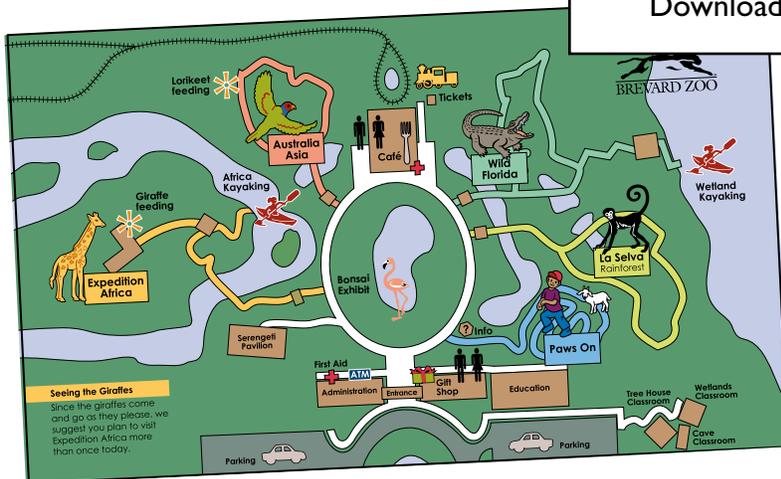

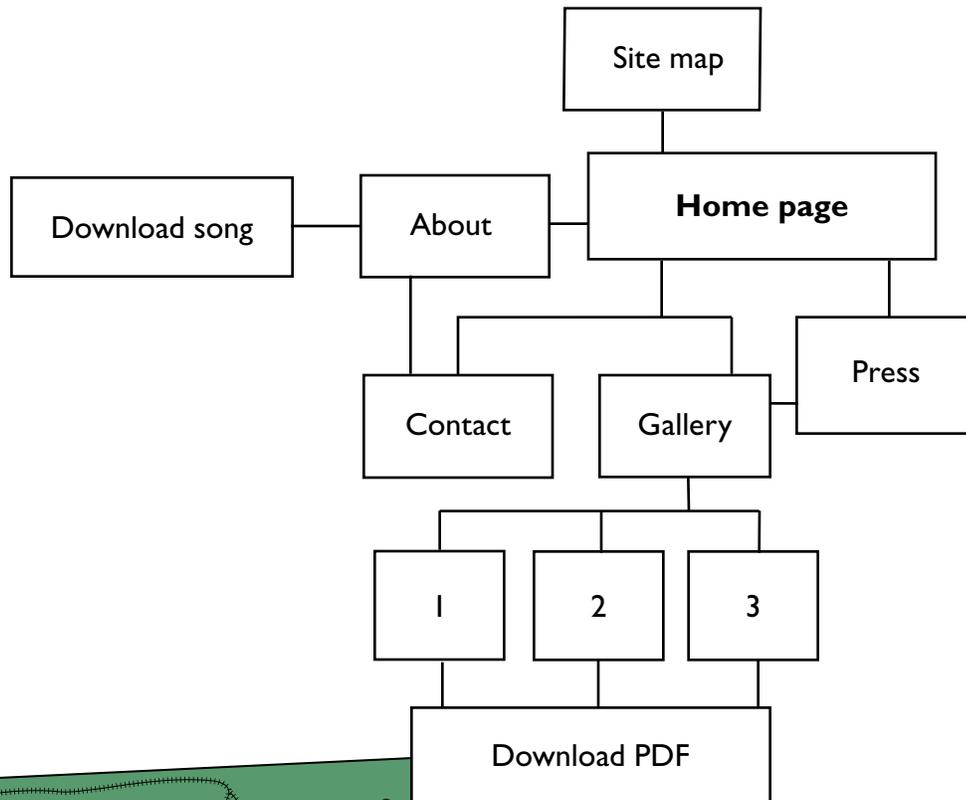

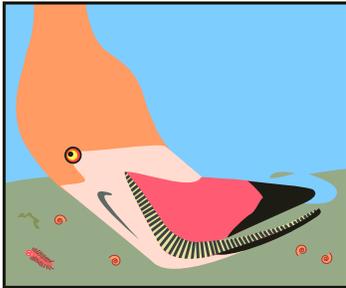

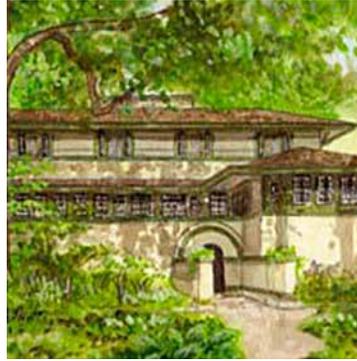

How shall the site be organized?

We will begin by creating “site architecture,” a sort of organization chart that determines the number of pages, the function of each, and how they are linked together.

From this starting point we can list the elements needed to complete the site.

Navigation on the web is much like wayfinding in real spaces using maps, signs, and landmarks, a long-time specialty of ours.

What elements are already in place?

Next, what is your starting point?

- ☛ Have you registered a domain name, or is that our first step together?
- ☛ Do you already have identity elements like a logo, or are you counting on development of the website to establish your look?
- ☛ Do you have photographs and illustrations?
- ☛ How about text: writing for the web is like writing for signs: you have to keep your prose short and effective.
- ☛ If you are planning to collect money or sell directly through the website, do you have a PayPal or other account for collecting money?
- ☛ If you are featuring music or video, do you have samples in a usable format?

Who will do what to get all these together?

Once we know this, we can talk about budgets and schedules and how the process will flow.

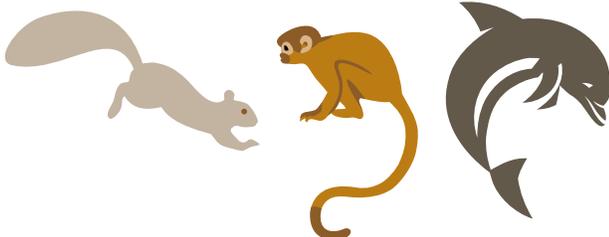

We can provide these extra services on request.

Of course, these will have budget impact.

We designed these logos and icons...

- ☛ A logo. (We can also design business cards and other printed pieces for you.)
- ☛ Illustrations.
- ☛ Text development. Or we can edit your copy to make it work better online, and we can proofread it to eliminate text errors.
- ☛ Programming. Our associate can incorporate media, blogs, interactive forms, and other complex items. He will assess code, and will be an active partner in developing all CMS (content management system) sites, including incorporating e-commerce functions.
- ☛ Extended photo prep—scanning, improving, and/or modifying a large number of photographs for web use. (A moderate number of photographs are included in the base price.)

How soon?

It depends on the scale and complexity of the project, so a schedule will be developed after the initial no-cost consultation.

Web Site Development Schedule Sample

Start date: Date contract is signed and 50% estimated fees paid	Day one
Client supplies to Developer: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• logo• ¼ of texts and images• other items needed for initial layout to proceed	10 days from start
Hannah Jennings Design supplies: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• proposed architecture• look-and-feel• sample page or pages	20 days from start
Client provides feedback on proposal 5 days from receipt of proposal
Final approval of proposal: An additional payment of 25% is due. Client supplies all materials in final form to Hannah Jennings Design	30 days from start
Site 90% complete, submitted to client for review	45 days from start
Site complete, including metafiles to maximize your search engine visibility (Assumes above deadlines are met)	60 days from start
Site is publicly launched upon payment of final invoice

 It also depends on our schedule and your responsiveness.
 We can't make our deadlines if you don't make yours.

How much?

It depends on the scale and complexity of the project, so a cost estimate will be developed after the initial no-cost consultation.

Web Site Cost Estimate Sample: Will vary!

 Don't overload pages thinking to save money!

*CMS sites are substantially more expensive but can be searched and allow you to make your own updates (with moderate training).

Are we right for designing your site?

We shine when it comes to conceptual thinking, design, writing, and illustration.

We can do fun things with sites.

We have made sites full of music,

and video,

and all manner of roll-overs and buttons and bows.

You will have personal attention from our founder, Hannah Jennings.

As a matter of fact, she'll be doing all of the design! She may enlist help from our associate copy editor or programmer.

Can we do everything that the big web houses do?

Just about. If you need something we can't do in-house, we bring in an associate who can.

What services do we offer after a site is launched?

We work out any bugs that turn up in the first 30 days.

Then we'll upload it to a host of your choice: or we can host your site.

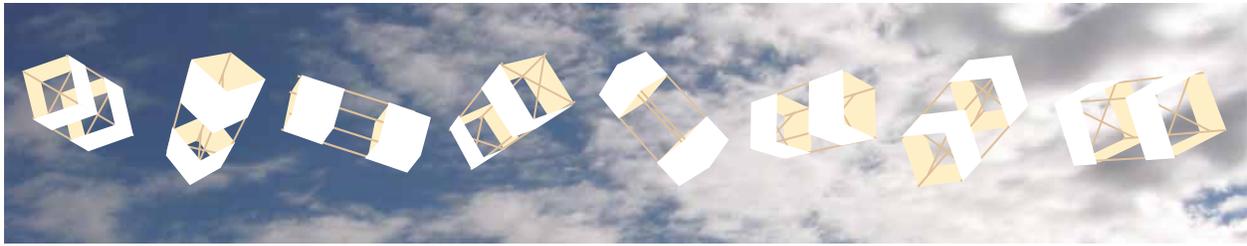

We host and maintain sites.

Hosting

For $150 a year Hannah Jennings Design will keep your site online. If we have registered your domain name, annual domain name renewal is included.

Maintenance and updates as needed

Our services are billed at $50 per hour. A minimum of $25 will be billed in any month in which we provide services.
